Q25 - What do you find appealing about other school websites that you do not find appealing about the UMSI website?

What do you find appealing about other school websites that you do not find...

N/a

Everything is organized purposefully on other school websites and with a specific audience in mind. It is obvious from their site that they care about users, whether they be students or faculty or staff, and organize their site based on what they might need. UMSI's website is not organized coherently at all. It's like they throw a bunch of links under certain headings and it doesn't make a whole lot of sense.

they have video clips in a slideshow instead of still photos, that highlight student works, student life, and current research projects

Easy access to class information/course guides. Large images/less text.

They have an accurate, updated list of courses offered in the next term as well as accurate information about the programs offered.

Diversity of the student body and Staff

minimalistic design, ease of navigation, chat support or phone contact information

Clearer links between sections and clear definition between MSI and BSI program offerings and requirements

White Space Photos of all different types of people links to videos of student experience student profiles examples of faculty work one click to application details/deadlines and events

Clear curriculum-----the same curriculum I applied INTO not random changes only alluded to that would shape my academic experience AFTER I applied to a program and put a deposit down. It cannot change like that again. Its not fair, its not what people agree to walk into

Navigation is more clear on other websites. (Sorry, I don't tend to go on other school websites!)

Course catalog and descriptions: it doesn't help if you list a course description but it isn't going to be offered in the 2 years you are doing your masters, so it should indicate when it is next planned to be offered. The course descriptions are also vague and have too much jargon. We're in school bc we are new to the field so we don't understand the jargon yet. More explanation of what classes would be useful for what paths and WHY. Not just course prerequisites, but real information on why I should take this class. which leads into why I should apply to this program or accept admission to this program.

I found that UCSD's website very engaging and eye-catching https://ucsd.edu/ The UMSI's website has too much information and it's too static. For international students, program ranking is one of the most important deciding factors in choosing schools. It will be great to see information feature alumni around the world as well.

Q27 - Do you have any other comments or concerns about the UMSI website that you want us to know?

Do you have any other comments or concerns about the Stamps website that yo...

No, it's fine.

The site needs to be more accessible. The lack of alt text, presence of broken links, and misuse of headings is unacceptable, especially for this school.

I think there should be an option to subscribe to an events calendar. If that's an option already, I didn't know.

Pay attention to usability- there's a lot to tab through

The website should represent the variety of specializations in UMSI, not just highlight a few trendy things

Make the links more consistent!

Can they take the ancient career paths area and upgrade it?

Usually if I browse through a school's website and I don't see someone that looks like me I don't apply

Colors are kind of ugly

Make it representative of what is currently happening, have more student voices, its navigation is terrible and non-user friendly for even those in the program. I asked someone in the Engagement Center where I could find funding information.....they asked if I knew what the website was and told me its on the intranet.......it took 20 min with no reproducible path to find it.

It seems that some of the information is outdated, so I'm not always sure that the information I find is the correct information. For example, I'm graduating this year, and the page for commencement still had information from last year, even after the administration had directed students to the site for this year's graduation.

search is a mess

It's so hard to find professors offices and office hours!
